

General Skills - CEO/Top Management

What's Keeping CEOs Awake at Night?

Keeping it all in perspective.

Starts: Thursday, May 14, 2009

Length: 1.5 Hours; 3:30 - 5:00 PM EST

Type: Public Seminar

Overview

TIME: 3:30 - 5:00 PM EST (2:30 PM Central; 1:30 PM Mountain; 12:30 PM Pacific)

Presentation by
Jeff Davidson, CEO
Breathing Space Institute

From a rocky economy, to intense global competition, to constant staffing issues, what CEO today does not face a boatload of gargantuan challenges that encroach upon that CEO's time away from the work? If you're losing sleep over company and work-related affairs, it's definitely time for a pulse check and to reassess the big picture of your life, career, and business.

In this enlightening and enjoyable session, professional speaker and author Jeff Davidson and Richard Melcombe of Richmel Productions address the hardcore realities of our time. Offering keen insights and fresh perspectives, they then lay out a strategy for keeping business worries in perspective and, yes, even getting a good's night's sleep.

Agenda

You will learn how to:

- Develop a big picture perspective of pressing problems.
- Anticipate challenges down the road and take early action before things snowball.
- Adopt methods for constantly identifying sources of supply: equipment, people, systems.
- Leave work feeling good about your accomplishments.
- Have a life for the rest of the day.

Instructor Info

Jeff Davidson, CEO, Breathing Space
www.breathingspace.com

BREATHING SPACE

Jeff Davidson travels throughout the U.S. speaking about achieving work-life balance to clients such as Kaiser Permanente, IBM, American Express, Lufthansa, Swissotel, AOL, Re/Max, USAA, D.O.E. and the World Bank. Widely quoted in USA Today, The Washington Post, The New York Times, and Investor's Business Daily, Davidson is the author of the popular book series, The 60 Second Innovator, The 60 Second Organizer, and The 60 Second Self-Starter(Adams Media).