Dear Jeff:

I really enjoyed and appreciated your talk to the Women in Management group last week for women managers here in the Triangle. Your presentation was one of the best I have ever attended, both in style of presentation and content of material. As a professional who runs communications skills improvement groups for business and professional leaders, I can honestly say that your speech was a classic for "how to do it!" You had the audience captivated during the entire time, which is quite a feat after lunch!

The material you presented from Breathing Space is very important for my colleagues, health care professionals. As I mentioned, I have recommended you to three professional groups - two national and one statewide - for workshops in the coming year. In the past we have been inundated with "quick fix" consultants in time management. You go far beyond that tactic and offer us lifetime suggestions for improvement. I am proud to say that after reading Breathing Space I threw away almost 40 bags of office garbage and now have a clean desk! I have made many of the suggested changes in my own life and my colleagues say I am much more organized these days. Thanks!

Sincerely,

Celia R. Hooper, Ph.D., CCC-SLP
