

The Professional Management Diploma Series

A unique curriculum of highly focused two-day workshops for experienced managers, technical professionals transitioning to management, and high-potential employees moving into key organizational positions.

Mastering Information and Workplace Overload

Be more focused, productive, and competitive, while remaining balanced and in control

March 24-25, 2010 - presented by Jeff Davidson

"I have been to a variety and large number of professional development workshops and I have found that the series offered through NC State University has provided the best learning experiences – such that I can take the knowledge I have obtained back to the workplace and apply it immediately."
