Dear Mr. Davidson,

I enjoyed both your luncheon presentation and your seminar at the ACHE Congress on Administration on the 4th of March. As promised I have enclosed the words to Jimmy Buffet's song "I love the now". It ties in nicely with your presentation and your reference to Carley Simon's song "These are the good old days".

After getting back to the office I have undertaken to clear the decks in my office. At home I briefed my wife and children on the mega trends and the "New tools for a New Era". We have begun to manage the beforehand and are working on learning to condition our environment.

I am looking forward to implementing additional micro tools and I am anxious to learn more about your strategies to find and create breathing space in my life.

I am in charge of the Lewis E. Angelo Professional Symposium (LEAPS) Navy day meeting that takes place at the conclusion of the ACHE congress (11 March 99). At this meeting over 400 Navy Health Care Executives meet to explore new concepts and trends in Military and Civilian medicine. In the past we have had keynote speakers that were already at the Congress speak at our meeting. At this years symposium both Paul Preston and Diane Peterson spoke. Perhaps we could explore the possibility for your participation in next years Navy Day meeting. I look forward to hearing from you.

Thanks again for a great presentation,

Sincerely,

Walt Tinling
