Dear Mr. Davidson:

Your presentation to the Indiana CPA Society was very informative and was done in a manner that kept the attention of the audience.

The information presented would be valuable to every one, not just the professional people; therefore, it would seem to me that there should have been some indication that spouses would be welcome at the presentation.

One observation I have is this: why do the cable TV companies feel that everyone must have a multitude of choices, which only serves to cause more frustration.

Thanks for your presentation.

Very truly yours,

RAMMELSBURG, P.C.
